Making an Impact

Our family financial management programs help residents learn how to manage their money effectively. Programs for budgeting, improving credit scores, pre-planning for home ownership, reducing debt, and preventing identity theft help secure healthy financial futures for Virginia's families.

Master Financial Education Volunteer

Master Financial Education Volunteers (MFEVs) receive training on topics such as developing spending and savings plan, managing credit, risk management, predatory lending, and more. These tools allow the volunteers to provide financial education to learning partners through classroom sessions, small group meetings, and other Virginia Cooperative Extension programs.

Managing Your Money

⇒ This series helps participants take control of their personal finances. Topics for the six-lesson series include personal finances, understanding credit, developing a spending and savings plan, traditional and non-traditional banking, insurance and recordkeeping, and steps to get out of debt.

Financial Mentoring

⇒ Mentoring provides participants the opportunity to meet individually with a volunteer over several sessions to learn how to manage money more effectively. Available only on a limited basis to those who have completed a classroom series.

Post-filing Bankruptcy Education

⇒ A personal financial management instructional course designed to help those having already filed for bankruptcy to get back on their feet through financial literacy and bankruptcy education.

Speakers Bureau

⇒ Our Speaker's Bureau provides one-time workshops for community groups on a variety of financial topics.

*Other Volunteer Opportunities

General Volunteer

⇒ Volunteers who prefer not to receive in-depth training are welcome to be involved in other ways such as helping with data entry, preparing exhibits and promotional materials, and assisting with special events.

Reality Store/Real Money, Real World/ Kid's Marketplace

⇒ These youth financial education programs simulate financial decisions that adults make every day in order to provide for themselves and their families.

Virginia LifeSmarts

⇒ A quiz bowl competition which tests the knowledge of high school students on important consumer information in an entertaining way.

For more information e-mail Karen Poff at kpoff@vt.edu or return the Interest Form from the side panel of the brochure.
